

ITALIAN PEOPLE AT MILAN RIOT IN STREETS

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

ITALY'S dismal predicament and its far-reaching moral effect are likely to make the way of transgressor Hitler exceeding hard in the not distant future.

The way things now are developing it wouldn't be surprising to see the Nazi chief attempt the major operation of making a sweeping withdrawal on all fronts to re-secure boundaries which he would try to defend against the Allies—come one, come all. Strengthened by this consolidation he would battle for a stalemate, hoping not only to save the Reich but salvage some of his ill-got gains.

The length of time which must elapse before the all highest undertakes such a last-stand move obviously depends on how hard the Allies are able to push him. That in turn hinges on the speed with which the Anglo-American brotherhood is able to clean up the Italian situation and strike elsewhere.

In yesterday's column I pointed out the great threat which would be created to the present German battle-line in Russia if the western Allies should follow the Italian collapse with an invasion of the Balkans. A successful drive up the Balkan peninsula would force the Nazis to undertake the terribly dangerous feat of pulling back their entire front, assuming that Soviet pressure was maintained.

It's most unlikely that this could be achieved without corresponding withdrawals in western Europe. Hitler's position would be so precarious on the eastern front during his retreat that he wouldn't dare leave his forces scattered throughout the occupied areas of the west. Moreover, we are reminded of another circumstance by British Prime Minister Churchill who yesterday told a cheering house of commons: "The spirit of revolt rises higher in all subjugated lands. German rule is maintained from the north cape of Norway to the island of Crete only by hideous and ruthless cruelty, reprisals and massacres."

THE Greeks, the Yugoslavs, the Czechoslovaks, the Poles, the French, the Belgians, the Dutch, the Norwegians—all these tortured folk are merely waiting for the signal to throw themselves on their oppressors. Indeed, Yugoslav guerrilla forces never have ceased to wage bitter war on the invaders, and the ferocity of these attacks has increased with the weakening of Italy.

The idea of Hitler withdrawing to a restricted area for final defense isn't new. Military observers long have foreseen its inevitability when the Germans got hard pressed.

President Prepares First War Report In Six Months

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 28.—Against a backdrop of Allied might pounding forward on all major fronts and the political demise of Benito Mussolini, President Roosevelt drafted today his first war report to the American people in five and a half months.

The President will broadcast for half an hour on all networks to night at 9:30, Eastern War time, and the White House labeled the address of "major importance."

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference he would talk on the war, and he made it plain he considered war activities at home and in the actual theaters of combat of parallel importance, a hint on the scope of tonight's speech.

He was in a position to paint a glowing picture of events in the Mediterranean, the Pacific, Russia and from the skies over Europe.

The words of caution appeared in order from the chief executive on what has been happening here to wages, prices, manpower, internal disputes in the government, as well as on an admitted possibility that war production goals for 1943 may not be attained.

Not since Feb. 12, when he spoke at a dinner of the White House Correspondents' association, has the chief executive presented a comprehensive review of the war to his countrymen. Allied armies then still were trying to exterminate enemy resistance in Tunisia, and the President promised that the consequences of victory there would be "actual invasions of the continent of Europe."

War Policy Unchanged

Obliquely, Mr. Roosevelt indicated there would be no receding from the Allied policy of unconditional surrender, declaring Secretary of State Hull already had covered the matter in saying he had seen no intimations and expected none from the White House or war department that the policy would be altered.

Mr. Roosevelt told his conference that neither the White House nor the state department had authorized a broadcast by the Office of War Information which referred to Vittorio Emanuele of Italy as "the moronic little king," and his disapproval was palpable.

In New York, Samuel Grafton, columnist for the New York Post, when the OWI quoted in the broadcast, issued the following statement after hearing of President Roosevelt's disapproval: "The phrase 'moronic little king' seems to me a rather temperate reference to the head of a state which has declared war on my country, but in view of the ominous indications that England and America may accept the Badoglio government, I can only say that perhaps the moronic little king is smarter than I thought."

There was some thought that the chief executive might have been providing a bit of a preview to a section of his address when he stressed to reporters the breadth of the war effort.

He said an attack on Sicily, for example, really began on farms and in the mines in America and went through succeeding steps, where food and raw materials were processed and transported in this country and across the ocean.

McClain of Youngstown and his "retiree," for $2122 deputy Sours claimed McClain as a deputy registrar of motor vehicles collected from sale of motor vehicles collected from sale of license tags but failed to turn over to the state.

Liquor Permit Sales Low

COLUMBUS, July 28.—Revenue from the sale of liquor and beer permits declined $220,755 for the first six months of 1943 compared with the like period of 1942, the state liquor department reported. This year's figure was $3,162,835.

U. S. SEVENTH ARMY SEIZES 5 NEW TOWNS

Capture Cefalu, Alimena; Advance Toward Nazi Lines at San Stefano

(By Associated Press)
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 28.—American troops of the Seventh army, sweeping eastward toward the tip of Sicily, have captured Cefalu, 90 miles west of Messina strait, and are advancing against strongly prepared German defenses at San Stefano, it was announced at Allied headquarters today.

The Americans are slashing forward on a deep front along the north coast, and have also captured Alimena, 25 miles southeast of Cefalu, and four other towns behind a line from Cefalu to Alimena.

The other four are Petralia, nine miles north of Alimena; Collesano, nine miles southwest of Cefalu; Calteveturo, 17 miles southwest of Cefalu; and Polizzia, just forward of Calteveturo.

The battle of the bridgehead had reached the "slugging stage" as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters communique announced that Canadian troops in the center of the front also had made progress in hard fighting against bitter opposition.

British Stopped Cold

The British Eighth army still was stopped dead before Catania in the eastern sector for the 13th successive day—longer than it was stopped either at El Alamein in Egypt when it took up the offensive, or at the Mareh line in Tunisia.

Front dispatches said the Germans were completely in charge of the strong Enna line running from San Stefano to Nicosia, Agrigato, Catenanuova to the Dittano river and had put Italian survivors of two field divisions which "escaped the American encirclement of western Sicily to digging trenches and preparing road blocks."

The same report, however, said that "political developments do not appear yet to have interfered with the German habit of sawditching Italians in at the firing line."

It is believed only a small number of Italians actually continued as combat troops.

Airlifts Are Bombed

Allied aircraft swept over a number of airfields on the Italian mainland, bombing those at Capodichino and Monte Corvino road.

FREMONT, July 28.—Fire today destroyed the Our Lady of Pines community center for Sisters of Mercy of the Toledo Catholic diocese, and unofficial damage estimates ran as high as $200,000.

AGAIN CAUGHT IN A DEATH TRIANGLE, Axis forces in Sicily are being pressed back upon the Messina apex. American, after capturing Cefalu, 50 miles east of Palermo on the northern coast, rushed eastward to cut the enemy off. The British continued to gain at Catania despite bitter resistance while German divisions and a few Italian troops strove to throw up a last defense line stretching from Catania to San Stefano. The map shows Allied-held territory in the shaded portion and the Axis line.

Turkey May Serve As Peace Mediator In Italian Crisis

(By Associated Press)
ISTANBUL, July 28.—Turkey was projected dramatically into the role of a possible mediator between the United Nations and Italy today by a hasty and mysterious conference between the new Italian foreign minister, Raffaele Guariglia, and Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemenciglu.

The meeting was held amid every indication of secrecy and urgency aboard the Italian embassy launch in the sea of Marmara yesterday. Immediately after the conference Menemenciglu left hurriedly for the capital at Ankara and it was disclosed that Guariglia—who has been in Turkey as ambassador under the Fascist regime of Benito Mussolini—would leave by plane today for Rome.

The circumstances under which the meeting was held were in themselves sufficient to arouse intense interest.

The fact the Turkish minister agreed to see Guariglia at Istanbul instead of the foreign office in Ankara indicated the importance of the conference. Turkey, as a neutral power maintaining close diplomatic relations with both the United States and Great Britain, is a logical choice as the medium for possible Italian peace overtures.

Lake-Warm Fascist
Guariglia was appointed to the Turkish post three months ago and at the time it was understood that he was not the Italians' first choice for the job. Rome, it was understood wanted to appoint an ambassador with pro-Allied leanings, but the suggestion apparently was vetoed by Berlin, Italy's Axis partner.

Guariglia, who is not known to have exhibited any particular Allied sympathies, is known to have been only lukewarm toward the Fascist party.

There were unconfirmed rumors in Istanbul that Guariglia's successor as ambassador to Turkey would be Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law, who was removed as Fascist foreign secretary and sent to Vatican as ambassador early this year.

The Turkish press reacted favorably to the news of the collapse of the opinion that Italy would soon be out of the war.

Even the pro-Axis Tasviri Eftar saw the handwriting on the wall for the Axis in Mussolini's fall. "Mussolini's resignation must be considered a breach in the European fortress," the paper commented. "If Italy withdraws from the war now the situation will compare to the closing period of the last war."

Mobs Cry For Peace; Army Called Out

BULLETIN

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, July 28.—A Reuters dispatch quoted an Italian news agency broadcast today as announcing that the Fascist party was dissolved yesterday at the first meeting of the new Italian cabinet.

By Associated Press

BERN, Switzerland, July 28.—Unconfirmed reports received at the Italian frontier today said an insurrection among the people, verging on revolution, had broken out at Milan.

Mobs swept through the streets, despite a state of siege proclaimed by the military authorities, shouting "Liberty," and "We want peace," the reports said.

Shots were fired. The situation was described as extremely grave.

All workers were reported to have left their jobs. Earlier the Corriere Della Sera of Milan had reported islands of Fascist resistance were holding out against Italian troops at Milan and indicated that uncertainty over the new government's course between peace and war was producing restlessness among the people.

The Rome radio, in frequent interruptions of musical programs, warned the people against "sensational" rumors circulated by irresponsible persons.

Tullio Giordana, new director of the Gazzetta Del Popolo at Turin, was quoted in dispatches as urging patience upon the people advising them that it was not possible to make peace in two days.

The newspaper Il Corriere Della Sera reported that Fascists in the Milan suburbs barricaded themselves in buildings and fired on crowds of civilians and soldiers.

The newspaper said the fight to wipe out nests of Fascist defiance was "long, difficult and bloody," with some of the followers of ex-premier Mussolini's regime still battling authorities.

Inmates of the great Milan prison of Cellarelli mutilated and burned part of the prison in an attempted break. One prisoner was killed and many were wounded.

U. S. STEPS UP KISKA ATTACK

Warplanes Carry Out 19 Raids In 2 Days; Wake Island Hit Again

(By Associated Press)
American warplanes blasted the Japanese stronghold at Kiska in a record-breaking sweep of 19 attacks Monday and Tuesday, the Navy announced today, and pounded the enemy mid-Pacific base at Wake Island for the second time in four days.

Kiska was hit 13 times Monday and six times yesterday with a fury suggesting that the hour for invasion of the last Japanese foothold in the Aleutians may be near.

Kiska has been attacked 40 times in a period of four days ending yesterday.

In the raid on Wake, U. S. Army heavy bombers shot down seven of a flight of 25 Japanese Zero fighters attempting to intercept them, probably destroyed five others and damaged three-making a toll of 33 enemy aircraft destroyed or damaged out of 55 interceptors in two raids.

In the southwest Pacific, dispatches from Allied headquarters reported American troops had smashed through strong Japanese defenses east of Munda and stormed within 2100 yards of the prize enemy airfield on New Georgia island in the central Solomons.

A headquarters spokesman said U. S. forces scored "considerable" gains all along the enemy's siege-bound stronghold, while Allied bombers rained another 35 tons of explosives on the beleaguered enemy garrison.

On the New Guinea front, Allied troops were reported to have engaged the Japanese in a series of sharp clashes northeast of Mt. Tambu, which lies only a few miles south of the big enemy base at Salamaua.

Gov. Bricker Sitting For Belgian Portrait Painter
COLUMBUS, July 28.—Gov. John W. Bricker is sitting these days for Alfred Jonniaux, Belgian portrait painter, who is doing the official picture of the governor for hanging in the state house.

The governor's office reported today he was going to Ohio State university for the painting, for which Jonniaux will get $500.

Each governor except Martin L. Davey has his portrait in the state house, and for each the legislature appropriated $500. Davey isn't there because he said he could not get a good portrait done for $500, and insisted on $1,000. The legislature turned him down.

Ask Motorists To Watch Freshly Painted Markings
COLUMBUS, July 28.—The state highway department appealed to truck operators today not to drive across freshly painted center lines in highways before they are dry.

Director H. O. Sours said that drivers who cross the wet paint, despite the small red flag markers, "smear the paint, rub out the center line, destroy the effectiveness of the work which the department has done, and create a traffic hazard."

LORAIN, July 28.—Edward R. Lepke, 31, of Cleveland, fell from a cabin cruiser while fishing in Lake Erie and was drowned near here. Coast guardsmen began a hunt for the body.

MUSOLINI'S FALL FROM GRACE

The satisfaction of knowing just-jawed, ranting, arrogant Benito Mussolini has been kicked off at the end of his Fascist line is shaded by the confused circumstances of the event.

It is not known whether King Victor Emmanuel, who never had the strength to kick his blustering premier before, in time to avert disaster for Italy, now has the prestige and power to maintain a military government.

It cannot be certain that Marshal Badoglio, head of the new military government, will not prove to be another Marshal Petain, though his record suggests he is merely Italy's ablest general, called in to make the most of Italy's forthcoming surrender. The terms of unconditional surrender stated at Casablanca still stand, but there are many things to be done before Italy safely can divorce itself from Germany and drop out of the war.

Nor can anyone know yet what the reconstitution of the government means to Italian Fascists, who have lost their leader but may retain their power over Italy's internal affairs. There are many other questions to be answered. Even if news from Italy could be obtained freely, the picture would be muddled. A tremendous thing has happened.

As a symptom of Italy's internal disintegration under the heavy pressure brought to bear by the Allies, the shakeup confirms the belief that success in the Mediterranean campaign, always a matter of time, has been brought a great deal closer by invasion of Sicily. The Fascists were the Italian party. Italy's mediocre performance as a fighting power has proved they lacked popular support. Their leader's resignation is evidence that Italy's internal problem of government has become acute.

However, until it becomes plain whether the king acted under the compulsion of military necessity, or whether he is now the spokesman for a new peace party, perhaps already in communication with the Allied governments, Italy's immediate future in the war must remain uncertain.

Uncertainty will be the pattern for the eventual disintegration of Germany, in all probability, and Japan, too. There will be no clear line of demarcation between the end of the military dictatorship that instigated war and the beginning of the military regime created to preside at the defeat.

There will be only confusion, uncertainty and a desperate groping for the terms of a new existence purged of the hateful barbarisms of the Mussolinis, Hitlers and Japanese war lords. Mussolini is the first to fall, but there are two more regimes like his to go. The chaos he leaves behind him at the end of his attempt to head the reaction from the Russian-led Communism that followed World War I is only a sample of what things will be like in Germany and Japan.

Since the beginning of the great Mediterranean campaign last November when sufficient force finally was concentrated to defeat the Axis in Africa, Italy's collapse has been the first of the hoped-for results. The only question has been: How long?

The campaign has been successful beyond expectations. Italy's final defeat, drawing closer day by day, now seems imminent. Mussolini's fall is a tell-tale sign of Italy's serious internal weakness.

We share the elation in the hearts of men and women who have worked, suffered, fought and died in the Mediterranean to weaken the Axis by Italy's collapse, but the elation is all theirs by right. What is good news for us at home is the reward of heroic effort for those who made it possible.

IT COULD HAPPEN TO HITLER

Mussolini's fall suggests the possibility of a similar fate for Hitler. Moreover, it suggests that the fate might overtake Hitler sooner, rather than later.

The power in Germany corresponding to the power of the throne in Italy is the army military caste. Hitler and his Nazis have tried to destroy it by doing away with certain strong generals—even to the point of murder, according to the evidence—but they have been only partly successful. Like Mussolini and the Fascists in Italy, who humiliated King Victor Emmanuel and the royal family but never destroyed them, the Nazis could be made to yield to the superior prestige of the military caste. It is significant that when defeat overtook the German army in Tunisia, there was no hint of regret over the blow to Hitler, but only regret over the defeat of the German army.

When Hitler goes—as he must go sooner or later—his end probably will be violent. Mussolini's, at least as far as is known, so far, has been relatively peaceful. His enemies may get to him later, but there is no indication that they have disposed of him yet. But with Hitler it probably will take blood-letting to terminate his hold on Germany. Before the blood-letting there will need to be a stronger combination of circumstances to clinch his fate—conclusive defeat on all fronts and a popular realization of betrayal under his rule. The circumstances could be created more quickly than seemed possible a few weeks ago, before the successful invasion of Tunisia. Mussolini's downfall has shown the way.

Military leaders are still watching the Balkans for the big smash to start.

Italy, thoroughly invaded by the Nazi, should find a liberating invasion much to its liking.

Another freedom overlooked is the right to have ice cream on pie, when the war is won.

Partly because of his other duties, Secretary Ickes probably won't mine enough coal.

Christening so many ships is a splendid way in which to get rid of the champagne supply.

A great deal of our trouble with pneumonia was due to epidemics spreading from single cases; it was not carelessness, but simply that there was nothing effective to be done about it. Now the single cases are cleared up in short order, and there have been few, if any, serious epidemics in the camps.

Tropical diseases have become an experience that the medical corps of my day did not have to meet to any extent. The few cases we saw were turned over to the regular medical corps officers who had been trained at the Army school of tropical medicine.

Today certain faculty members of all medical schools have been sent to take courses in tropical medicine and have returned to give courses to the prospective medical officers, now medical students. Malaria is the worst problem; even though quinine and atabrine can halt most of the immediate symptoms, it is still a tough customer and digs into a body to come to the surface at unexpected moments.

In the field of war surgery equally encouraging results are reported. Our field and evacuation hospitals have a far greater proportion of severe and crippling wounds than they had in the last war, but this is because men with such wounds do not die on the battlefield before help can reach them in such numbers as they did in the last war. The severely wounded now live to reach the base hospital.

Partly this is due to improved methods of evacuating the sick—especially by airplanes which can disregard bad roads as well as time. The military surgeon has always spoken of the "golden period" in the treatment of war wounds—the eight hours after the wound is received, during which treatment saves life.

Sulfa Drugs Save Many Not only during present battle conditions are more wounded men removed to base hospitals during this period, but, thanks to the sulfa drugs, this golden period has been extended to twelve or twenty-four hours, as we are reminded by Mr. Albert Q. Maisel, author of "The Miracles of Military Medicine," in the June issue of the "American Mercury." Every soldier carries a package of sulfa tablets which can be opened with one hand and is instructed to swallow one as soon as wounded. He also has a sulfa powder to sprinkle on the wound. Even if he is trapped in a shell hole he can be under self-treatment while waiting for the medical corps.

The loss of life from surgical shock is now cut down enormously by the use of blood plasma, which you, my readers, are furnishing to your local Red Cross station.

Your Uncle Sam Says CAN It; Tomatoes One Of Best Foods

BY MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, AP Food Editor

EVEN if you haven't a Victory garden, you will want to put up some of the summer's good vegetables and fruits for enjoyment next winter.

Tomatoes are the best bet in the vegetable line because they are plentiful, easy to can and full of vitamin C. This vitamin cannot be stored in the body so one has to eat the supply daily.

Tomatoes are also the only common vegetable which the U. S. Bureau of Home Economics says can be canned safely without the use of a steam pressure cooker. When you put up vegetables without a steam pressure there is danger of spoilage and the possibility of the deadly food poisoning called botulism.

If you are planning an extensive vegetable canning spree, shop around the neighborhood for pressure cookers. Several neighbors can club together and do their canning and surely those owning pressure cookers will gladly share them. Various food agencies are holding canning clinics, so attend these and pick up all the latest information.

Proper Equipment Essential

It's important to have the proper equipment and canning instructions handy before you go to work. Best way to can tomatoes is in a boiling bath. For this you can use a large container with a tightly fitting lid. A wash boiler, metal pail or large kettle will do. Select a wooden or metal rack to fit into the bottom of the container to hold the jars. A wire cake cooler or home-made rack is satisfactory. The rack keeps the jars off the bottom of the container and allows the water to circulate.

Check over your jars and tops, making sure that they are perfect. Some tops seal the food completely before it goes into the hot water bath and others are partially sealed beforehand and then completed when the processing is completed. So make sure that you know what type you have. You will need a funnel, measuring spoon, three large pans, wire basket or colander and a pair of tongs to remove the jars from their hot bath.

Wash all equipment in hot water. Place a cloth in bottom of a kettle and add jars, rubbers and lids. Bring slowly to boil and boil gently 5 minutes to sterilize. Keep over low heat until needed for filling. Then "fish" out the jars as needed. If you are sealing the jars with metal discs with rubber compound on them do not boil these but dip quickly in boiling water just before placing on the filled jars as they are ready to be processed.

Handle Carefully

Select firm ripe tomatoes, wash in cold water. Handle carefully and place several in a wire basket or colander, dip into a pan of gently boiling water for one minute. Plunge into a pan of cold water, then quickly peel off skins and discard blossom ends.

Cut the tomatoes into quarters or leave whole and boil them a minute. This reduces bulk. Pack them, boiling, into hot jars, add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart jar. Fill the jars to within one-half inch of the top, slip a silver knife down around the edge of the jar to let out any air bubbles. Seal the jar according to instructions which come with the lids. Carefully transfer the filled jars to the canner half filled with boiling water. Put on immediately with more boiling water, covering jars by 2 inches. Adjust the cover of the canner. If the lid does not readily stay in place, weight it down with several heavy objects.

When vigorously boiling, start counting the time. Process (boil) 10 minutes. (Increase the processing time one minute more for each thousand feet above sea level. This means that two thousand feet elevation requires 12 minutes of processing.) Carefully lift out the jars with tongs, and let cool out of a draft on a cloth. Store in dark, cool, dry place.

The raccoon is one of the few American animals without a European counterpart.

Pity Poor Pa In Post-War Women's Era

By ADELAIDE KERR, AP Features Writer

What will women do after the war is over?

Are they going to stick to riveters' gloves and army uniforms—or will they go back to aprons again? Will papa find his slippers warming once more on the hearth—or will he have to learn how a can-opener works?

A lot of questions like that are keeping people up nights.

Well, here is my personal opinion, for whatever it may be worth: Things will never be the same again.

The changes won't show immediately, of course. When soldiers come home seeking jobs and industry switches back to peacetime production, many girls will drop welders' helmets and put on wedding veils. But after that time passes, watch for the girls to come back and the changes to show up.

All signs seem to say that women will be much needed for outside work in the reconstruction period. In the first place legions of soldiers may not come home after the war, but may be kept in foreign countries to help police the world. That means more jobs for women in business and industry. In the second place the world faces a gigantic task in reconstruction and rehabilitation. Rebuilding demolished countries. Feeding starved peoples. Reestablishing agriculture, industry, transportation and trade all over the world. That means work for millions more.

It looks as though the need for women's services would be great. Some of them may even have to work whether they want to or not. But a lot of them will want to. The war taught thousands of wives (who were used to working like slaves without pay) the advantages of working on salary; better education for the children, an extra pal of stockings, a little treat now and then without having to pilfer from Papa's pants.

So thousands will vote for the job. If Mama and her daughter are both going to work outside the house, something has to be done about the tasks they used to do. And that's where the changes come in. Changes that are already being taken into consideration by industry, social service and education.

A lot of people think that servants will be scarce after the war, for maids, like some other people, have discovered that it's pleasanter to work eight hours a day for $40 a week, than 10 hours a day for $15. So industry is streamlining houses and furnishings to cut down the time required for upkeep and care. You'll be seeing cookstoves with built in cooking units, eliminating the need for pots and pans; refrigerators with revolving compartments, which can be reached from the dining alcove; dining tables which fold up against the wall, doing away with the need for separate dining rooms.

When it comes to settling the problems of meals in a world of working women, many people bring up the subject of England's community kitchens, where a woman who has a job can pick up a hot meal and take it home to serve. The newest specifications for London block apartments call for a snack bar which will render similar service.

As for the children, day nurseries are already caring for millions of them. To the cry that nothing can replace mother's love, the experts reply that is true, but that too often, unfortunately, mother's love is not matched by her wisdom in child care. There are millions of little children who have no regular meals or midday naps, who play neglected in the streets whether mother is at home or not. Those are better off in nurseries, well punctuated fed and learning how to get along with.

ONE-MAN RODEO
COFFEYVILLE, Kas. — Staff Sgt. Charles L. Hogan is known as the one-man rodeo of Coffeyville army air field. The other day he drove his car alongside a runaway horse, grasped the bridle, stopped the horse and his car and jumped out. With the horse under control, he looked around to see his car rolling straight for a tree. He raced down the street and grabbed the brake just in time.

BASS TURNS OUT TO BE A SUCKER
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — Walter Champion says he was fishing from a dock and accidentally laid his cigarette across the strong holding the several fish he had already caught. The strong burned in two and the fish dropped into the water. "To say I was sick is putting it mildly," he added. "But about 30 minutes later I got a terrific strike. One of the bass on the string had struck again and I had succeeded in hooking him. I recovered the string without the loss of a single fish."

MODERN MARRIAGE, ROAD STYLE
BATON ROUGE, La. — The Louisiana Library Commission, which tries to answer anybody's question about anything, got this one from a soldier. His girl was coming from California. He was going west to meet and marry her. Where they would meet would depend on the vagaries of leave time, reservations and train connections. He wanted to find out about marriage license laws in all states between Louisiana and California.

The commission, which has supplied other soldiers with such things as Arabian primers, obliged with a book on marriage laws in all 48 states and its congratulations.

CONSTABLE KNOWS WHERE TO DRAW THE LINE
MARYVILLE, Tenn. — Constable R. E. Bales lives in Sevier county and his wife resides in Blount county — but they are only 20 feet apart and are as happily married as ever. The unique arrangement was made so that Bales could retain his job as constable in Sevier, where he had to reside. So he leased a plot of land on the county line, adjoining his 300-acre farm. Everything's legal and logical now, but the constable's tiny shack isn't so comfortable. He eats at his wife's house.

THE WEAKER SEX GETS STRONGER
TOPEKA, Kas. — Not in these swing shift days are women the weaker sex. A blustery brunette called a taxicab the other early morning; ordered the driver to take her four miles into the country; ousted him and commandeered the cab. And he walked home.

Gas Rationing Cuts States' Tax Revenue

CHICAGO — Tax revenue has been seriously curtailed in many states by gasoline rationing, but considerable slack has been taken up by additional taxes on both liquor and tobacco, according to the Federation of Tax Administrators. In 1942 total gasoline tax collections were $819,000,000 from all states with the exception of Arkansas, Idaho and Pennsylvania. This tax revenue was 11 per cent less than from the previous year. The gasoline rationing program has resulted in a 34.2 per cent decrease from the 1942 gasoline taxes in all but two of the 45 states submitting their reports to the tax administrators. Data from Tennessee and Kansas showed that these states increased their gasoline tax revenues by approximately 2 per cent since March, 1941. The opposite trend was noted in 39 states, where alcoholic taxes have made total revenue increases ranging from $168,000,000 in 1940, to $196,000,000 in 1941, and to $237,900,000 in 1942. The Illinois liquor commission found that alcoholic drinking generally increased throughout the United States during 1942, with per capita liquor consumption heaviest in Nevada. The commission found that wine is the favorite drink for Californians, while beer is the most popular drink in Michigan. The increase in the nation's tobacco tax revenue rose from $85,000,000 in 1940 to $103,000,000 in 1941, and up to $118,000,000 in 1942.

Niles Pilot Tells Of Escape As Japs Attacked Fortress

NEW YORK, July 28.—Lieut. William Crawford, Jr., of Niles, Ohio, recognized as one of the heroes of the battle of the Bismarck sea, told the story today of how 11 crew members of the Flying Fortress "Loose Goose" were saved from 27 Japanese Zero fighter planes after their ship was riddled by ground fire. "A Jap shell came through the bomb bay," said the 26-year-old lieutenant here on his first leave. "It exploded inside and destroyed most of the internal equipment, including the salvo handle in the cockpit, the oxygen system and the hydraulic system. "We were traveling at a pretty fast rate of speed then and the whistling of the wind through that hole made a tremendous screaming sound. A fire broke out in the fuselage. A single bomb still hung in the rack in the bomb bay."

Ordinarily the remaining bomb could have been released from the cockpit. But since the salvo handle was smashed, Lieut. John L. Gibbs of Hattisburg, Miss., the co-pilot, had to go down through the hatch into the bomb bay to signal the bombardier to release the missile. "We were traveling at a pretty fast rate of speed then and the whistling of the wind through that hole made a tremendous screaming sound. A fire broke out in the fuselage. A single bomb still hung in the rack in the bomb bay."

Army Hospitals Deal With Soldiers Suffering Mentally

By GEORGE TUCKER

CAIRO, July 28.—Capt. John M. Flumerfelt of Philadelphia said today that one out of every eight American soldiers admitted to general hospitals in the Middle East or evacuated to the United States was a mental case.

Flumerfelt, chief of the psychiatric service of the 38th general hospital, said there were several types: Character or personality neuroses—persons unable to adapt themselves to separation from family, home, friends and familiar environment. They are affected by climatic and geographic changes, by native populations and by the rigidity of Army life as contrasted with the elasticity of civilian life. These symptoms were peculiar to them before they came into the Army and almost without exception they have done poorly overseas.

Situational neuroses—The result in stable and well integrated young men who are exposed to severe stress over a prolonged period. Thirty per cent of the troops evacuated from Dunkerque developed symptoms of this neurosis. This is typical of combat troops, especially in bomber crews and fighter pilots who sometimes develop symptoms of tension, apprehension and physiological manifestations of anxiety during missions. Sometimes reach point where a man, pushing himself against himself to keep going, cracks up.

Bomber Pilots Crack
One of the 150 cases now in the hospital is a bomber pilot with more than 200 combat hours to his credit. Flumerfelt said. Neurotic symptoms increased sharply after a crash in which one of the pilot's friends was killed. His behavior became marked by increased irritability, loss of interest in things previously enjoyed and growing anxiety as missions came up. His sleep was broken by nightmares in which he flew through walls of anti-aircraft fire and his sense of responsibility for the lives of his crew became so acute he finally admitted to the commanding officer that he was no longer a safe pilot.

Other manifestations included trembling hands, increased heart action and profuse sweating unrelated to exertion. "This man was a solid, well integrated person and under similar conditions what happened to him could happen to you, me or anybody," Flumerfelt said. "Only a fractional percentage of people remain unaffected by prolonged and unrelieved stress, but most people return to normal after the stress is removed."

To help this pilot, an "out" which carried no conscious admission of fear had to be provided. The pilot discovered that doctors noted his increased heart action and reasoned that his combat record proved he was not afraid, "but if flying is going to injure my heart it's not worth it."

More Complex Problem
When a pilot advances this argument, as it is in one form or another almost every day, the Army policy is to acquiesce and transfer him to less demanding duties. Usually he responds and at the end of the war he is expected to re-enter civil life in perfect health. But the solution for soldiers troubled with psychosis or neurosis is more complex. In the former group the symptoms of insanity were present to some extent in their pre-army histories and their conditions have been worsened by overseas duty. Symptoms of nervousness, timidity, quavering voice and the inability to adapt themselves to changing situations in the neurosis group are matters that therapy cannot altogether correct. The best that can be hoped for is that they be returned to civilian life no worse off than when they came into the Army. That is the problem concerning army medical experts.

GRAND AMERICAN TRAPSHOOT TO BE HELD AUG. 25-27

Participants Will Bring Own Ammunition For Vandalia Classic

BY FRITZ HOWELL
VANDALIA, July 28.—This small county village will stage its 20th consecutive Grand American trapshoot Aug. 25, 26 and 27, but the 44-year-old trapshoot carnival will be a streamlined affair because of war-occasioned changes.

Practically every angle will be shifted to some extent. The No. 1 feature—the $10,000 Grand American handicap—will revert to a 100-target affair after a one-year trial in 1942 as a 200-target classic. The usual eight-day program has been cut to three days; only 500 targets will be thrown. Instead of the usual 1900, for each full-route contestant. Thirteen championships will be decided on the opening day's 200 targets at 16 yards, instead of being spread over 1000 targets.

The second day's firing calls for 50 pairs of targets for the doubles championship and 100 handicaps in the preliminary warmup for the "roaring grand" finale, which calls for another 100 handicap targets the final day.

Other changes call for each marksman to bring his own shells, none being available for sale on the grounds. Until this year the shooters were required to buy ammunition on the grounds. This year no practice traps will be in operation.

Ammunition shortages, rationing and travel restrictions brought the changes. The program slash will permit each full-route contestant to save 56 boxes of shells, or 1400 rounds.

Indians In Usual Gothic Performance

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 28.—The Cleveland Indians gave their usual Yankee stadium performance yesterday in opening a four-game series with the Bronx Bombers.

The Yankees won 4 to 3, the fourth triumph in four games with the Indians in New York, and the third by a one-run margin.

The two teams do battle again today and then combine forces to oppose the cloudbursts from the rival pre-flight school of Chapel Hill, N. C., for the Red Cross benefit. Babe Ruth will manage the combined Yankee-Indian operation.

Yesterday's bitter loss was a 13-inning affair, in which the Tribe used two varsity hurlers. Al Smith started and gave up seven hits before being relieved in the sixth. Relief Pitcher Pete Center worked one full inning and then yielded the mound to Allie Reynolds.

Reynolds gave up only two hits in six and a third inning, but one of them was Bill Dickey's winning single.

Headed For Best Year In Majors

Finger Points At Bucs' Gustine

By ARDEN SKIDMORE
PITTSBURGH—Frankie Gustine, versatile young star of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is headed for his best year in the major leagues this season—and it doesn't matter a whole lot where he plays.

It seems that whenever Manager Frankie Frisch loses one of his players through injuries he points a long finger at Gustine, who for weeks has been the only Buc regular hitting above .300. And handy Frankie, a hustler who likes to play ball, is only too happy to oblige.

Ordinarily, the 23-year-old Chicagoan, who might have reached predicted stardom long ago had it not been for an appalling string of injuries, is the Pirates' second baseman but on paper that might be a little confusing. On the basis of the first 50 games this year he played more at shortstop than he has at second, appearing at short in 25 games, at second in 20 games, with three other contests in which he performed at both positions.

In addition he played third base—and in a recent Philadelphia night game he played three and two-third innings at first base—after Elbie Fletcher and Johnny Wyrostek had been hurt on successive plays. Last year, when Bill Baker suffered a split finger and Al Lopez and Babe Phelps had been removed from the lineup, leaving the Bucs without a catcher, Gustine volunteered to go in and catch the remaining two and one-third innings of play.

While the zealous lad may be a bit dizzy from all this shifting around, he's getting the opportunity to play ball—and that's a big item with Gustine. A varied assortment of leg, ankle and finger injuries had checked his career at almost every turn.

Frankie has no explanation for his hitting surge this year.

"I haven't changed my stance any, and I'm swinging just as I always have. I guess the hits are just falling for me, and I'm not bothered by injuries now." As a fielder, the modest, clean-cut chap has always been a whiz.

Asked if Gustine wasn't just coming into his own, Frisch replied:

"No, I wouldn't say that. Gustine has always played good ball. He's just been checked by injuries."

And indeed Gustine has. Few players in the majors have had his hard luck.

Gustine, whom the Bucs obtained from the Gadsden (Ala.) club in 1939, seemed destined to become a star in 1940, his first full year in the big show. But amid a red-hot batting clip that found him well above .350, he pulled up with a leg injury. Leg and ankle injuries continued to harass him the next two years.

This year Frankie had the shortstop position cinched just a few days before the season opened at Chicago, then he suffered a fractured finger.

"I think I'm having my best year, and hope my hard luck is all over," said Gustine. His legion of ardent supporters hope so.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 28.—Just wondering—Joe Dey, the U. S. Golf association secretary, has heard from so many army camps that need golf equipment to keep their driving ranges, pitch-putt courses, etc., going that he's beginning to wonder just how many outfits have golf facilities.

Also, whether the war will produce a new generation of long-driving golfers who learned to sock 'em on the camp driving ranges.... And Nat Fleischer, Ring magazine editor, wonders just how able-bodied sports stars in general are.... Nat's records show 17 first-flight boxers of the past two years who have been discharged from the services for various injuries that weren't noted during boxing commission examinations.

HEADLINE HEADLINER

When the AP wires brought the Erie, Pa., Dispatch-Herald word about how baseball fans learned the news of Mussolini's resignation, Wes Driscoll topped the story with this compact headline: "Bum! Delays Yankee Game"

SCRAP COLLECTION

Hal Peck, who blew a chance to become a major league outfielder when he accidentally shot two toes off his left foot, thinks he'll be ready to try again in 1944.... Hal has sold his collection of guns.... Gunder Haegg has promised to send Gil Dodds three pairs of those light-weight running shoes with needle spikes as soon as he gets back to Sweden.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Tommy Fitzgerald, Louisville Courier-Journal: "An umpire worked the Dodgers-White Sox exhibition game at Cooperstown carrying a taxicab and on his chest protector. He no doubt was depending on the company's regulations to keep more than five fans from riding him at the same time."

SERVICE DEPT.

Ray Robinson, the "unworned welterweight champ," has qualified as a marksman at Mitchell field, L. I.... And just to show what a "break" a bigshot boxer gets in the army, Ray had to put in a full day on the target range Sunday then put in an eight-hour tour of guard duty that night in order to get some time off Monday to attend the funeral of Murray Lewin, the boxing writer.

Babe Ruth Returns To Yankee Stadium To Manage Benefit

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, July 28.—The big guy is coming home today; home to the vast concrete house he built with his two powerful arms and the rotation of that huge, barrel-like torso.

The one and only Bambino returns to the Yankee stadium—the house that Ruth built—as manager-for-a-day as a team made up of members of the Yankee and Cleveland Indian squads, known as the Yank-Lands, meets the Cloudbusters of the North Carolina Navy Pre-Flight school in an exhibition game as part of a Red Cross benefit double header. The Yanks and Indians play their regularly scheduled game in the other half of the bill.

It won't be the Ruth of old. He won't roll up to the plate with that mincing stride to send a baseball in a tremendous arc into the right field bleachers. He won't, that is, unless he personally elects himself to the role of pinch hitter, and late reports indicate he will confine his duties strictly to managing.

He'll be the sole boss. Managers Lou Boudreau of the Indians and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees will withdraw to the shadows of the stands after they have directed their respective teams in the regular league game, leaving everything to the Bambino and his two aides, Coaches Art Fletcher of the Yanks and Del Baker of Cleveland.

It will be the fulfillment of a dream for Ruth—the dream of managing a team of major leaguers in the stadium which saw his greatest glory.

Former Salem Girl High In Rifle Marksmanship

Miss Eleanor Donbar of Corpus Christi, Tex., formerly of Salem, has been awarded a certificate for completion of a course in rifle marksmanship at the city rifle range, sponsored by the Corpus Christi Rifle and Pistol club.

Miss Donbar, a member of the third class to complete the course, is the honor student of all three classes. Her qualifying score of 268 out of a possible 300, fired at regulation 22 calibre rifle targets, was high among both men and women who have taken the course.

Miss Donbar is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donbar, N. Lundy ave.

CHICAGO, July 28.—Tommy James, former Ohio State university halfback, has been added to the All-Star football squad which will meet the Washington Redskins the night of Aug. 25 in a charity game at Northwestern's Dyche stadium.

Gulls, Once Revered, Now On Utah Farm Black List

SALT LAKE CITY—The seagull has a revered spot in Utah history—there is even a monument to the big bird in Temple square—but fruit growers in the state are getting peeved at him.

The farmers contend that the gulls, whose antecedents devoured crickets attacking the pioneer Mormons' crops, are feasting on their cherries. They want permission to shoot them.

C. L. Pretwell, a federal game agent, said the birds are protected under a migratory bird treaty, but they may be killed if found responsible for damage. He warned farmers, however, that they must get a federal permit before blazing away at the gulls.

GUN LEFT BY FLEEING ITALIANS

AN AMERICAN SOLDIER looks over a 90 mm. Italian gun that was abandoned near Canicattì, Sicily. The weapon was spiked and blasted apart by its crew before they fled. It was just one of many large guns captured by the rapidly advancing U. S. Seventh Army. A conservative estimate of equipment taken from the enemy by Americans lists 250 big guns, 500 vehicles, 84 heavy tanks, and 10,000 rounds of ammunition. U. S. Signal Corps Radiophoto. The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

The Fuehrer, perhaps on the insistence of his high command, has had his final defenses prepared.

The first stage of a general withdrawal in Russia presumably would be to the line of the River Dnieper, as remarked yesterday.

However, if things were going badly with the Germans they would be only an intermediate stop, for their final destination would carry them at least into Poland.

On the western front, Hitler is said to have had the two vast and "invulnerable" fortified lines with which the war started—the French Maginot and the German Westwall—prepared for the defense of the fatherland. Many other strategic strong points have been got ready for the show-down.

It remains to be seen whether Hitler will make his withdrawals while he still is strong or wait until he is absolutely driven to it. As Churchill remarked in his speech yesterday, the "German national strength is still massive." If the Fuehrer should act soon, and be able to make these difficult changes without disaster, he certainly would present a formidable front. That's where the Allied air navies would come in, to crack the interior of his fortress and hew an entrance for our armies.

REPUBLICAN FEUD FLARES INTO OPEN

Postwar Policy Chairman Denies Any Attempt To Split Party

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, July 28.—An internal ruckus that has been brewing quietly in Republican ranks over the scope of a foreign policy declaration for 1944 was out in the open today with public charges and denials that the Republican Postwar Policy association aims to "split" the party by harping against peacetime "isolationists."

Officers of the association, organized recently in Chicago and New York, came to grips with Chairman Harrison E. Spangler of the Republican National committee late yesterday when they called to urge that strong foreign cooperation resolutions be presented to the party's Postwar Advisory council meeting at Mackinac island, Mich., Sept. 6 and 7.

Formal statements and press conferences, sparked by an exchange of cold stares and warm remarks by publicity agents for each side, followed the closed meeting at Republican headquarters with these tangible results:

1—Deneen A. Watson, Chicago attorney and national chairman of the association, served notice his group would fight for a Republican presidential candidate and platform standing "four-square" for American participation in peace-preservation machinery. He denied his group was backing Wendell Willkie or any other specific person.

2—Spangler promised to lay the association proposals before the council and said in a formal statement:

"I am sure that Republicans, and the people as a whole, can look with confidence to the official council of 49 to help guide America towards a better world. It is composed of Republican leaders chosen at the polls by the votes of millions of Americans. They are well equipped to advise the Republican party."

3—Watson told newsmen that Spangler read to his delegation of five a letter from an unnamed westerner saying the association was trying to "split" the party. He said he did not believe Spangler himself believed the charge.

"We are trying to avoid a split, not to make a split," Watson declared. "We want a foreign policy adopted that means something. We're not going to pussyfoot on it. We mean business."

Order Liquidation Of Fidelity Company

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28.—The formal winding up of the affairs of the $25,000,000 Fidelity Assurance association of Wheeling began today with an order by Kanawha Circuit Judge Julian F. Bouchelle holding the reorganization was impossible and liquidation should be undertaken.

Judge Bouchelle's order followed filing of a report of receivers A.P. Hudson and H. Isaiah Smith on July 17 that they found reorganization impossible for the firm which for 30 years sold investment contracts in 29 states.

Judge Bouchelle named John J. D. Preston, former chairman of the Public Service commission, as commissioner in chancery to receive proofs of claims, ascertain the assets and evaluate liens involving the company whose total contracts were estimated in 1941 at a face value of $600,000,000 and a cash surrender value of $25,000,000.

The Kanawha circuit court in Charleston took jurisdiction in the case involving Fidelity after the United States supreme court had ruled that the Southern West Virginia district federal court lacked jurisdiction.

Federal Judge Ben Moore originally had approved a proposal for reorganization of Fidelity assurance, which formerly was known as the Fidelity Investment association.

After the decision on jurisdiction, Judge Bouchelle assumed control of the case.

DEMOCRATS DELAY PATRONAGE RALLY

State Auditor Joseph Ferguson Intends To Call Meeting in 3 Weeks

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, July 28.—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson said today he would wait until the third week of August to call another meeting of state Democratic leaders to discuss federal patronage in the hope that, in the interim, appointment of a Cleveland postmaster would clarify the situation.

Ferguson previously had indicated the informal convention would be early in August. In announcing the change, he made it plain, however, that he did not intend retreating from his stand that the party's state chairman, Darrell S. Jones, should obtain federal jobs or resign.

"I'm going to wait until the third week in August and if jobs are not forthcoming, postmaster or no postmaster in Cleveland, I am going to call the boys together again and see if we cannot get action," Ferguson said.

The auditor, only Democrat holding elective state office, said he planned to invite Democratic National Chairman Frank Walker, also postmaster general, to address the convention on the federal patronage position in Ohio.

He asserted Birkett Williams of Cleveland was slated to be replaced as regional OPA director by an Indiana Democrat and that numerous good jobs would be available to party members thereafter.

Ferguson reported he planned to delay calling the second informal party convention after conferring with Al A. Horstman of Dayton, Democratic state central committee head.

Horstman, Ferguson said, expressed belief that as soon as the postmaster was decided, other federal jobs would be opened for party members in Ohio.

MUSSOLINI LOST THIS EMPIRE

ITALY HELD LIBYA, Eritrea and Somaliland in Africa, a territory many times larger than the homeland, when Mussolini came to power. Il Duce, whose eyes were bigger than his army, grabbed Ethiopia and formed the new empire. Since the second World War started, every foot of this territory (shown in black portion on the map) has been taken from Italy and she also has lost most of her islands. The loss of the empire was an important factor in the resignation of Mussolini, who had promised his followers huge gains. (International)

STATE'S WELFARE CROPS ARE LOWER

Production on Institutional Farms Falls Below 1942 Records

COLUMBUS, July 28.—Reductions ranging from 4 to 44 per cent were indicated today in crops of the state welfare department, despite an increase of 1,000 in acres under cultivation.

Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney attributed the decline, after last year's record-breaking production, to unfavorable weather.

The department this year has approximately 13,000 acres under cultivation on its 22 institutional farms, and the produce will be used to feed the more than 36,000 persons in penal institutions and state hospitals.

The department's estimated potato production for 1943 is 121,371 bushels, a decline of 28 per cent over 1942. The wheat outlook is 25,967 bushels, down 35 per cent; haylage is off 39 per cent and ear corn 24 per cent.

The strawberry yield was 55,151 quarts, a drop of 44 per cent, the estimated apple production is 28,189, off 36 per cent. Beet production is expected to drop about 17 per cent, carrots 13 per cent and sweet corn 15.

On the bright side, the pea crop will increase about 28 per cent and the anticipated yield of 2,426 tons of tomatoes will represent an increase of 6 per cent over 1942.

Gains also are expected in dairy production, beef and pork.

Harris, 38, after hiding out for 15 months, surrendered to the law because of his lack of the book and what it would permit him to have.
